Getting Started

First of all, take a deep breath (students AND parents!) The college application process can be overwhelming, frustrating, and tiresome. However, if you put one foot in front of the other and do not procrastinate, it can be a fairly pleasant experience. The first step of this process is to think about where you might want to be for the next two to four years.

What are my options?

•Liberal Art Schools/Research Universities: Traditional 4-year schools; both academic and art classes available.

•Liberal Art Schools/Research Universities with Conservatory programs: A ‘school within a school’; must audition/show portfolio; must be accepted into both the art program and the academic program; may offer BA or BFA degrees.

•Conservatories and Visual Art Schools: Most are 4-year schools; some have core, basic academics; must audition/show portfolio; usually offer a BFA degree. ••

•Community Colleges: 2-year Associate Degree programs; many students go to community college to raise their GPA or save money, and then transfer to a 4-year school.

•Professional Dance Companies

•Job training programs (Technical Schools, Job Corps, etc.)

Some basics to consider

- Setting (urban, rural, college town)
- Size
- Geography/weather
- Public vs. private*
- Cost*
- Religious or ethnic affiliation
- In state vs. out of state
- Diversity
- Campus Life (sports, clubs, fraternities & sororities, housing)
- Public vs. Private

*Even though a school may be very expensive, you do not know how much money a school will give you. After the financial aid packages arrive, an expensive out-of-state private college may cost the same as an in-state public college (see ‘Financial Aid’). This, however, is rare. If a family has financial need, students are STRONGLY encouraged to apply to at least TWO Maryland state schools. See ‘Financial Aid’ section for more information about money for college

RESEARCH, RESEARCH, RESEARCH!!!

Internet Searches

There are a TON of college search engines. Here are some good ones:

connection.naviance.com/bsah

This is the student's personalized Naviance account.

Both the username AND password are the student's school ID.

www.collegedata.com

www.unigo.com

www.nces.ed.gov/collegenavigator/

www.bigfuture.collegeboard.org

www.collegeresults.org/ (college graduation rates)

www.collegeconfidential.com

www.princetonreview.com

If you just ADORE data, google 'Common Data Set' and the name of any school. You will be rewarded with more information than you'll know what to do with.

Be realistic and know your numbers. If you are interested in a particular school, look up the average GPA and SAT scores of its incoming freshmen. If you have a 2.0 GPA and 1100 composite SAT score, you don't want to waste your money and time on an application to Harvard. That said, you should certainly apply to one or two realistic reach schools. Many of the college search engines listed above will allow you to do a search just based on the numbers. This can be very helpful in making your search more manageable. Please note - Pay more attention to reported average SAT scores than reported GPAs. You don't always know what GPA scale a school is using.

Conversations

Talk to students who have graduated from BSA, academic teachers, department heads, private lesson teachers, parents, friends, etc. Learn about their college experiences and listen to their suggestions. Is there someone you know or admire who is doing what you would like to be doing someday? Look up their biography and see where they went to school. Be inquisitive!

College Fairs

See the BSA calendar for the dates of the BSA and NACAC (National Association for College Admission Counseling) college and performing art college fairs. GO! Abby will send emails during the school year about other opportunities in the Baltimore area.

BSA college representative visits

Every year, college admissions representatives from schools across the country visit BSA. If you are a junior or senior and your art department head or academic teacher allows you to miss class, you may attend the information session. Some meetings may occur after school. Permission slips for visits during the school day are outside of Abby's office.

Visit the schools

Once you have a reasonable list of schools you are interested in, visit as many of them as possible. Some families choose to visit schools after the student receives the acceptance letters. You may desperately want to go to a school until you get there and realize that it doesn't feel right. After you have seen what it has to offer, one school that was fairly low on your list might jump to the top. If you do decide to visit a school, call the admissions office and schedule a tour/information session. Ideally, for the schools on the top of your list, arrange an overnight visit with a current student (this is often done after the initial visit). It is important to see what life at a school is like outside of the classroom.

Many colleges also host special programs for particular populations (first generation college students, members of low income households, minority students) on their websites.

Seniors are allowed five excused absences for college visits and auditions. However, it is highly recommended that visits take place on school vacations, audition week, and Professional Days that are attached to weekends.

Interviews

Many schools offer on-campus interviews that you can schedule when you tour. Some schools offer off-campus interviews that may be with an alumni representative who lives in the Baltimore area. An interview can be an important way for both student and interviewer to assess the student's interest in and fit with the institution. After an interview, the interviewer will send a written report to the admissions committee about his/her impressions of the student. This information goes in the student's application file and may be reviewed. Students should send a THANK YOU note (not an email) to the interviewer immediately!

Please see the Appendix at the end of this Handbook for some helpful hints about interviews.

What do schools need?

(See 'The Application Process' for more detailed information.)

Applications

All schools have an application for admission. The application can be found on each school's website (under 'Apply', 'Prospective Students', 'Admissions', etc.) The application consists of basic questions about you and your family, your academic history, your extracurricular activities, community service work, and most applications include an essay.

Transcript

Your transcript is a list of all of the classes you have taken since the 9th grade and the final grades you have received in those classes. Schools will see your grades through junior year and will also want your first quarter and first semester report cards from senior year.

GPA

Your GPA (Grade Point Average) is the quantitative measure of your record in high school, from freshman year up to the end of the last school year. We use a 5.0 GPA scale and classes are weighted.

SAT/ACT Scores

Most schools require scores from the SAT or the ACT. At BSA, we focus on the SAT because the district pays for it. We would like each student take the SAT at least twice. It is recommended that students take it once in March at BSA (paid for by the district), perhaps May or June of their junior year, and then once in August (paid for by the district).

The ACT is a more curriculum-based test, with sections in Math, English, Reading, and Science. Students should consider taking the ACT test at least once. Some students do significantly better on the ACT.

A few schools require two SAT Subject tests in addition to the SAT reasoning test OR the ACT Plus Writing. Make sure you check the testing requirements of the schools you are interested in.

Recommendations

Schools usually require at least two recommendations. Sometimes the application will tell you who should write them. If not, I suggest one academic teacher and one art teacher.

Auditions/Portfolios

Most auditions and portfolio reviews are scheduled after your application has been received. It is up to you to sign up online or call the art office and schedule the appointment. Most auditions and portfolio reviews will be at the school to which you are applying. You will be working with your art teachers to prepare auditions and portfolios. Please check each college/conservatory's website carefully for audition requirements.

Your College List

By September of your senior year, you should have your college application list fairly well established. Most students apply to 7-12 schools. Your list should include the following:

2-5 Likely Schools: Schools you will likely get into

4-7 Target Schools: Schools you are pretty sure you can get into

1-2 Reach Schools: Schools that may be difficult to get into, but you have a shot.

If you have any financial need, you should apply to at least TWO Maryland target and safety state schools.

The Application Process

General Information

Each school has a website. Make sure you visit each website's Admissions page and review all admissions criteria, application requirements (ex. Does one school need three recommendations and another require none? Does one school require two Subject Tests and another doesn't even require an SAT score?), and application deadlines. Organize requirements and dates by making a chart and buying a calendar just for college deadlines.

The student completes the application and sends it directly to the colleges by the deadline.

The student schedules all auditions.

The student is responsible for sending or reporting his/her SAT or ACT scores to each college (see 'Standardized Tests'). Scores are sent via collegeboard.org (SATs) or act.org (ACTs).

The student requests letters of recommendation from teachers via Naviance. The teacher will send the recommendations (See 'Recommendations').

The student requests transcripts via Naviance.

Abby sends transcripts, Secondary School reports, the Counselor Recommendation, and the School Profile.

Admission Options

Early Decision: The application is usually due in November, and a decision is made by December. Some schools offer an Early Decision II plan which has an application deadline later than November. Early Decision admittance to a school is BINDING (if you are accepted, you must attend). For this reason, you may only use this option for one school. Students are generally not encouraged to use this option unless they are 100% certain that this is the school they wish to attend AND they are able to pay a significant amount of the tuition and room and board.

Early Action/Priority Decision: The application is usually due in November, and a decision is usually made by December. Early Action decisions are not binding (if you are accepted to the school, you do not have to attend). Therefore, if many of your schools offer Early Action admission, you may apply to all of them using this option. In some cases, institutions may place limitations on the number of additional Early Action applications a student may submit. It is critical that you review the requirements of each school that offers Early Action. Students are strongly encouraged to take advantage of the Early Action option if a school offers it.

Regular Decision: The application is due any time from November to March (usually December or January) and a decision is made by April.

Rolling Admission: There is no set deadline for the application. Schools will make admission decisions as applications are received. When applying to a school that offers Rolling Admission, it is important to apply as soon as possible.

A NOTE ABOUT DEADLINES:

Though colleges and conservatories usually have fixed deadlines for applications, it is beneficial that students send their applications as soon as possible. Though a deadline may be January 1, you can be sure that college admissions representatives are not waiting until that deadline to review and add students to their acceptance lists.

The Application

There are different ways to apply to colleges. Each college will tell you how to apply.

1. The colleges own application, found on each college's website
2. The Common Application
3. The Coalition Application
4. The Universal Application (same general format as the Common Application)
5. The Unified Application for Music and Performing Arts Schools
6. Accepted Application

About the Common Application

- The Common Application is accepted by almost 700 institutions and you will likely be using it for at least a few of your schools. It was developed so students could apply to multiple colleges using one form.
- Most schools that offer the Common Application will also require a supplement that usually includes a short essay that is specific to a particular college.
- The application is available in August at www.commonapp.org.

Application tips

- If your email address is offensive or silly, please create an appropriate (first initial, last name, number) email address that you will use for your college applications.

▪Check and verify your parents and siblings college attendance and graduation dates. If your parents did not attend college, it is important that colleges know that you are a first-generation college student.

▪Secondary School = High School

▪Decision Plan=Regular Decision, Early Action, Early Decision, etc.

▪Admissions representatives want to see your full senior schedule. You want to list all academic AND art classes that you are taking senior year. If there is not room in the 1st and 2nd semester columns, use the 3rd trimester column and make a note that all classes are full-year.

▪If the application has a question about other institutions to which you are applying, it is advisable to list two or three similar schools. Do not give a full list.

BSA does not rank students.

BSA weighs classes.

BSA uses a 5.0 GPA scale.

BSA is a public school, not a charter school.

▪Extracurricular Activities

Because you have the unusual experience of attending a performing arts high school, you may list gallery showings, concerts, recitals, theatre performances, stage management experience, etc. that you have been involved in at BSA, as well as any outside activities or paid work experience.

▪ Writing/Essay

The essay is your opportunity to individualize your application. This is your chance to give an admissions representative some insight into who you are, where you have been, and where you would like to go.

Consider the fact that most college admissions representatives read hundreds, if not thousands, of essays in a very short period of time. If you can catch their attention with a ‘hook’ in the first couple of sentences, you are ahead of the game. Tell them what you want them to know, NOT what you think they want to hear.

When choosing a topic (if a few are offered) and when writing a college essay, please ask yourself, “What do I want this essay to reveal about me? Will the reader have a sense of my character and personality after reading it? What is something about me that might make me stand out from every other applicant?”

If you are having trouble finding a topic, answering the following questions may lead to some ideas:

What is my greatest accomplishment?

What am I passionate about? A subject? A cause? A role model?

Have I overcome a serious hardship?

What is different about me than someone with the same GPA and test scores?

Have I shown leadership? When and how?

Did I attend a special summer program?

What do I struggle with and how do I overcome it?

Some helpful hints:

▪ DO NOT PROCRASTINATE.

▪ The admissions representatives expect you to write the way a 17- or 18-year old student would write. It is important (and highly advised) to ask a parent, teacher, or literate friend to review your essay, but the final product must sound like you!

▪ Write what comes to mind and edit later.

And then edit again.

And then edit again.

▪ Be very aware of grammar, spelling, and organization around the theme.

▪ Be concise. An admissions representative has, on average, 2 to 3 minutes per essay. Do not exceed the specified length. You do not want their first impression to be, “This kid can’t/won’t follow directions!”

- If you are having difficulty thinking of something to write about that might set you apart, remember that seniors at other schools do not have the experience of going to a school like BSA. There may be an essay there.
- It is fine to use one essay for multiple colleges, as long as you are addressing the essay question that is asked.
- If there is an Optional Essay, DO IT.

Payment

Schools have application fees ranging from $0-$150 with most in the $50 range. If you are eligible for College Board fee waivers (Go to <https://collegereadiness.collegeboard.org/sat/register/fees/fee-waivers>), you are eligible for application fee waivers. Please see Abby to find out if you are eligible for fee waivers. Keep in mind that not all schools accept fee waivers. In addition, schools handle fee waivers differently. Do not wait until the last minute to submit your application. We may have to contact the school to get your application fee waived and we won't be able to do that after the deadline.

Once your application is ready to be submitted, you will be asked to pay online with a credit card. Your application will be submitted immediately.

If you have any questions at all about an application, ask Abby before submitting it.

Transcripts and Secondary School Reports

Every school to which you apply needs your high school transcript. Your transcript is a report of your grades from ninth grade to the end of junior year. Your first quarter and first semester senior report cards will usually be sent as well.

In addition, most colleges require the high school counselor to submit information about you in the form of a Secondary School Report. Abby also includes a BSA School Profile with the BSA Grading Scale.

It is of utmost importance that you meet the deadlines for requesting transcripts. The sooner, the better!

Friday, October 5, 2018: Transcript Requests due via Naviance.

In addition to the Secondary School Reports, most schools will want a Mid-Year Report. If your schools need Mid-Year reports, you will send a mid-year request via Naviance in January.

It is school policy that official transcripts are sent directly to institutions from the Guidance Counseling office. We do not give official transcripts to students or parents. You may request an unofficial transcript.

Recommendations

Most colleges require at least two recommendations from your teachers. Some applications will be specific about who should write the recommendations. They almost always require at least one from an academic teacher. If they do not specify, it is advisable to ask for a recommendation from one academic teacher and one art teacher.

Think about who you would like to write you a recommendation. It should not necessarily be the teacher in whose class you have received the highest grade. Sometimes, it is beneficial to get a recommendation from a teacher in whose class you have struggled and ultimately succeeded. That teacher will be able to talk about your discipline and perseverance when faced with a challenge.

Before you send a request to a teacher via Naviance, you must ask the teacher IN PERSON if s/he would be willing to write you a recommendation and you must give them the Teacher Recommendation form (outside of Abby's office). Please do not assume that every teacher would be comfortable writing a recommendation for you. It is up to them. Of course you would not want them to write one if they are hesitant.

Follow up and make sure that your teacher received the online request. Make sure your teachers are aware of the application deadlines for all of your schools.

It is of utmost importance that you give your teachers plenty of time to write your recommendation. The deadlines to request a recommendation from your teachers are the same as the deadlines to request transcripts:

Friday, October 5, 2018: Request recommendations via Naviance.

It is school policy that recommendations are sent directly to institutions from the recommending teacher. We do not give recommendations to students or parents, (even in sealed envelopes).

Standardized Tests

SAT (also called SAT Reasoning Test or SAT I)

This test is regarded as a measure of the critical thinking skills you will need for success in college. It contains three sections: Reading, Mathematics, and Writing (optional). The Reading and Math sections are scored on a 200-800 point basis for a possible score of 1600. For the math section, students should use a four-function, scientific, or graphing calculator.

It is strongly recommended that all BSA students take the SAT at least twice. It is recommended that students take it in school in March (paid for by the district), perhaps May or June of their junior year, and then in August (usually paid for by the district). It is not advisable to take the SAT more than three times. Statistically, scores do not change significantly after taking the SAT twice.

SAT Subject Tests (also called SAT II tests)

These are one-hour tests based on individual subjects. Very few schools require Subject Tests but you still may want to take them if you are advanced in a particular subject. The best time to take a Subject Test is just after completing the course related to the test subject. Like the SAT Reasoning Test, the Subject Test is scored on a 200-800 point basis. A student can elect to take up to three Subject Tests on one testing day.

The SAT Subject tests are as follows:

Math Level 1: Can be taken after Algebra 2

Math Level 2: Can be taken after Pre-calculus

Foreign Language: Should not be taken until the third year of a language has been completed. The Language with Listening test (November only) is recommended only for students with strong listening comprehension.

Physics

Chemistry

Biology

U.S. History

World History

Literature

ACT & ACT Plus Writing

The ACT is comprised of four subject areas (English, Reading, Math, and Science) and an option essay (the ACT Plus Writing). Generally, the more advanced students take the ACT Plus Writing. Most colleges will accept the SAT or the ACT. A few very competitive colleges require the SAT & 2 SAT Subject Tests OR the ACT Plus Writing. The ACT can be a great choice for students who have good grades in English, but tend to have low scores on the PSAT or SAT Critical Reading section. A student will receive four separate sub scores (1 is the lowest, 36 is the highest), one for each subject area, as well as a composite score that is the rounded average of the four sub scores. If you take the ACT Plus Writing, the essay is scored on a 2-12 point basis.

It is recommended that students take the ACT at least twice (in addition to the SAT). Many students do better on the ACT than the SAT. Give yourself the option of picking your highest score!

*You can find an ACT – SAT comparison chart at <http://blog.prepscholar.com/act-to-sat-conversion>

Test Preparation

The most important thing you can do to prepare for the SAT, SAT Subject tests, and ACT is to PRACTICE, PRACTICE, PRACTICE. Every student should link her/his College Board account with Khan Academy (see below) for free, personalized test prep. You should do 10-20 (or more!) questions a night, along with your regular homework. Score yourself and if you get a question wrong, read the description of the correct answer. When you are within a month of taking the test, take one morning on a weekend and time yourself taking one of the practice tests.

If your finding it difficult to discipline yourself to study and your family can afford to pay for an SAT or ACT class, take advantage of the assistance. It is advisable to take a class or see a tutor within a month of taking the test.

In addition, there are several online tutoring options. Please note that prices for tutoring services vary.

www.khanacademy.org (the GO-TO spot for personalized SAT prep, FREE & linked to your College Board account)

Registration and sending scores

The district should pay for two SATs (usually March and August/October). The district will register you for the March test. You will register with a paper application for the August or October test. Note: The district does not pay for SAT Subject Tests. To register for other test dates, you can register online at <https://collegereadiness.collegeboard.org/sat/register>.

You must submit a photo (attached to paper application or uploaded if applying online) with your registration for the SAT and ACT. The photo you provide will become part of your Admission Ticket.

On test day, you must bring a photo I.D. and the ticket.

To register for the ACT, go to www.act.org

After you have taken the test, your scores will be sent to you. This usually takes about three weeks.

It is the student's responsibility to send his/her scores to the colleges to which he/she is applying. To send SAT and ACT scores, you may do this from the College Board website (www.collegeboard.org) or the ACT website (www.actstudent.org) using your usernames and passwords. If you do not have a fee waiver, it costs money to send scores to colleges.

College Board (SAT) and ACT have implemented a ‘Score Choice’ option. This allows student to choose by test date which SAT or ACT scores they want sent to colleges (e.g. You may have your highest math score in May, but your highest Critical Reading score in October.) Please note that many highly-selective colleges do not allow students to use the ‘Score Choice’ option.

More and more schools are going ‘test-optional’. This means you do not have to send your standardized test scores. To see a list of schools that do not require standardized test scores, go to www.fairtest.org.

Auditions and portfolio reviews

Conservatories and visual art schools require an audition or portfolio review. Many colleges that have performing art or visual art programs require these as well. Please carefully review each school’s audition/portfolio requirements. The teachers in your art department should help you prepare. For performing art auditions, it is ideal (and usually required) to audition in person. Sometimes, a school will accept a taped audition, but it is not recommended.

The general requirements are as follows:

Theatre: One or two monologues (classical and/or contemporary may be required)

Possibly a musical theatre piece or a dance combination

Vocal & Instrumental Music: Two or three pieces of your choice, or selected by the school.

Some of the more competitive conservatories require a pre-screening recording (which may lead to an invitation to audition).

Possibly reading or ear training exercises

Dance: Dance department faculty observing a class

One or two prepared pieces (classical and/or modern)

Visual Art & Stage Production: Portfolio review.

A portfolio can usually be submitted electronically.

Some schools may have an assignment or ‘challenge’ to complete and submit with the application.

It is the student’s responsibility to schedule all auditions with each school. Many schools will not allow you to schedule your audition or portfolio review until your application has been received. It is important to schedule early as audition space can be limited so get your applications in as soon as possible! Travel arrangements may have to be made as well.

If you are a music student, you may want to try to schedule a private lesson with a teacher (or teachers) at each school. This is common practice, and a great opportunity for the teacher to get to know you and your work personally, and for you to assess whether it will be a good fit. Call the music department of the school or look online for the teacher's contact information.

If you are applying to a school that does not require an audition or portfolio, you should still consider sending a recording of a monologue, vocal or instrumental performance, dance solo, or portfolio. The fact that you attend an arts high school makes you different. Even if you don't plan to pursue your current art, let it help you get into college!

Cost

Going to college can be expensive. Applying to college can be expensive as well. Please take this into consideration when planning your budget for the year.

Below are some costs that you may incur in the application process:

- Application fees (free - $150 per application)
- SAT/ACT registration and sending scores
- Audition fees
- Traveling expenses (college visits and auditions)

Paying For College: Financial Aid

Financial aid: funds provided to students and families to help pay for college.

Honest communication between parents and students is essential for choosing a college that is feasible and reasonable as a financial obligation. The discussion about money, costs, and projected spending can be a difficult one, but it is best to begin this discussion early so that you, as a student and family, can make reasonable college choices.

Need-Based: based on family income

Merit-Based: academic achievement, leadership, artistic/athletic ability, etc.

Types of Financial Aid

Scholarships

Money that does not have to be paid back

Usually awarded to students with strong academic, athletic, and/or arts records.

Grants

Money that does not have to be paid back

Usually awarded on basis of financial need

Loans

Money students and/or parents borrow to help pay college expenses

Available from federal programs (Stafford, Perkins) and commercial banks, often at a low interest rate.

Repayment from federal loans usually begins 6 months after students graduate from college

Unsubsidized loans: Interest accrues while student is in school (full-time).

Subsidized loans: Interest begins to accrue 6 months after you leave school.

Work Study

Student earns money while in school to help pay educational costs.

In form of a paycheck or non-monetary compensation, such as room and board

Sources of Financial Aid

Federal Government

-Largest source of financial aid distributed via the college

-Aid awarded primarily on the basis of financial need

- Must apply every year using the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)
 - The FAFSA becomes available on October 1st
- Students and parents should complete the FAFSA at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov/> by January 1st of the year the student will be attending college. The FAFSA determines the family's EFC (Expected Family Contribution) number based on the tax information from 2 years before the student starts college (2017 for the class of 2019). With that number, each college that the student has applied to will develop a Financial Aid package. You will receive a different Financial Aid package from each college.

State Government

- Residency requirements
- Award aid on the basis of merit and need
- Most programs use information from the FAFSA.
- Deadlines vary from state to state (MD's deadline is March 1).
- For more information: www.mhec.state.md.us

Colleges/Universities

Many private colleges offer institutional aid (money that belongs to the school, not the government). Most will require the College Scholarship Service (CSS) PROFILE form in addition to the FAFSA. You may register for the PROFILE online at <https://profileonline.collegeboard.com>. Consult this site to determine which private colleges require submission of the profile. Some schools require the PROFILE to be submitted by November 1 of senior year.

Private sources

- Foundations, businesses, charitable organizations
- Deadlines and application procedures vary widely
- Begin researching private aid sources early
- Free Internet Scholarship Search Engines:

www.finaid.org
www.collegeboard.com
www.fastweb.com
www.gocollege.com
www.meritaid.com
www.myscholly.com
www.zinch.com

- Research what is available in your community
- What organizations and churches do you belong to? Ask if they have scholarship programs!
- Application process usually begins in spring of senior year
- Small scholarships add up!

Employers

- Companies may have scholarships available to children of employees
- Companies may have educational benefits for their employees

WHERE TO START?

Contact schools/visit schools' Financial Aid websites to find out:

- Scholarship requirements
- Need-based aid requirements
- Required forms (FAFSA, CSS profile, federal tax returns, etc.)
- Financial Aid scholarships and deadlines (in addition to Application deadlines) that are specific to each school

Complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by the earliest deadline. The FAFSA is available every year on October 1.

WHAT IS THE FAFSA?

If you have any financial need, you must submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The FAFSA is a form that collects demographic and financial information about the student and family. Even if you don't think you would qualify for financial aid, you and your parents should complete the FAFSA since many schools require it for merit scholarships.

The FAFSA is filed electronically at <http://www.fafsa.ed.gov/> (available in English and Spanish).

Information from the FAFSA is used to calculate the Expected Family Contribution (EFC). This is the amount of money a student and his or her family may reasonably be expected to contribute towards the cost of the student's education for the following academic year. The EFC is almost always higher than you think it should be!

Most questions about the FAFSA can be answered here:
<http://www.finaid.org/questions/faq.phtml>

You may contact customer service at FAFSA at 1-800-433-3243.

STEPS TO FEDERAL STUDENT AID*

1. Get free information and help from the financial aid office at the college you plan to attend, or the U.S. Department of Education at www.FederalStudentAid.ed.gov or 1-800-FED-AID. Free help is available any time during the application process. If an organization offers to help you through the process, and charges you a fee, it is a scam! YOU SHOULD NEVER HAVE TO PAY FOR HELP with financial aid.
2. Get a Federal Student Aid ID, a personal identification number. An ID lets you apply, 'sign' your FAFSA, make corrections to your application information and more – so keep it safe. Go to StudentAid.gov/fsaid to get your ID. Both a parent and student need an ID.

- 3. Collect the documents needed to apply. A full list of what you will need is at www.fafsa.ed.gov. The list includes: Social Security number; alien registration number (if applicable); federal tax information or tax returns; records of untaxed income; cash, savings, and checking account balances; and investments other than the home in which you live.

If you don't have all of this information yet, you can still start the FAFSA, save it and come back and finish it later.

- 4. Most colleges require that you file the FAFSA by January 1-February 1 for Regular Decision applicants. Apply as soon as possible after October 1 to meet school and state aid deadlines. Apply online at FAFSA on the web (the fastest and easiest way) by going to www.fafsa.ed.gov. If you don't already have your ID, you can get it when you complete the online FAFSA.
- 5. The U.S. Department of Education will send you your Student Aid Report (SAR) – the result of your FAFSA. Review your SAR and, if necessary, make changes or corrections and submit your SAR for reprocessing. Your complete, correct SAR will contain your Expected Family Contribution (EFC) – the number used to determine your federal student aid eligibility. IMPORTANT: Do not assume that the EFC number is the amount you will have to pay for college. It is simply a guideline for schools to assess how much need you have.
- 6. The college that you plan to attend may request additional information from you. Be sure to respond to any deadlines, or you might not receive federal student aid.
- 7. The colleges will tell you how much aid you can get at a particular school. Contact the financial aid office if you have any questions about that aid being offered. Review award letters from schools to compare amounts and types of aid being offered. Decide which school to attend based on a combination of (a) how well the college suits your needs and (b) its affordability after all aid is taken into account.
- 8. Once you have decided on a school, you will need to formally accept the school's aid offer. If you are offered student loans, borrow only as much as you really need! If it is not clear, ask the financial aid office when and how your aid will be paid out, what it will cover, and how much money will come directly to you once tuition and fees are paid.

WHAT IS THE CSS PROFILE?

There are about 200 colleges that require an application called the CSS Profile in addition to the FAFSA. Those colleges use the CSS profile to assess the student's eligibility for the college's own institutional aid dollars. The CSS Profile is going to ask much more in depth questions about your finances. Unlike the FAFSA, it usually also requires input from both parents, even if divorced.

You may register for the CSS PROFILE online at <https://profileonline.collegeboard.com>. Consult this site to determine which private colleges require submission of the profile. Some schools require the CSS PROFILE to be submitted by November 1 of senior year.

FINANCIAL AID PACKAGES

Based on the EFC, each college to which the student has applied will develop a financial aid package.

Financial aid packages can vary widely and are usually a combination of scholarships, grants, loans, and work study.

Here is a great article that will help you read your financial aid packages:

Want an early glimpse at how much money you may receive for college?

Use Net Price Calculators and the FAFSA4caster.

The FAFSA4caster will give you early estimate of how much federal student aid you might receive. Go to <https://studentaid.ed.gov/sa/fafsa/estimate>.

Every college is required to have a Net Price Calculator on the college's web site. The Net Price Calculator provides a student (and his or her parents) with a personalized estimate of the one-year net price of the college for the student. Note that this is an ESTIMATE. Google any college and 'Net Price Calculator' or visit a school's financial aid website.

IMPORTANT & REQUIRED READING**

Money, Money, Money

At BSA we are very interested in your success after high school. We want to help you find the post-secondary education that will prepare you for a great career and a successful life.

The choices you make now will affect the path of your life. One of the important choices you have to make has to do with money and debt.

As education debt surpasses all consumer debt and as the cost of attending college continues to rise much faster than inflation, we are extremely concerned about the financial burden that students accept during college studies.

This debt will follow students and/or parents until it is paid, a process that can extend to 30 years. This debt cannot be expunged through bankruptcy.

We want you to be an informed consumer of education.

Some facts:

- Maryland has the second-highest average student debt in the U.S. at $33,660. (only D.C. students carry more)
- We predict that last year's graduating class from BSA will have higher debt than average for Maryland students for four years of college.

Colleges fall into three rough categories in terms of their cost—

1. Private schools like Johns Hopkins or Juilliard
2. Public schools in other states like University of Virginia or SUNY Purchase
3. Public schools in our state like University of Maryland, UMBC, or St. Mary's College

This was the average cost of each of these three types for a recent BSA graduating class (Numbers represent the cost of 4 years of tuition, room and board):

	Tuition, room & board
Private schools	$185,624
Public schools out of state	$163,689
Public schools in Maryland	$76,054.

But, there are scholarships, right?

After all scholarships and grants (support you don't have to pay back), the average cost for the this class for 4 years of study was the following:

Type of School	Out-of-pocket expense
Private schools	$107,490
Public schools out of state	$79,294
Public schools in Maryland	$41,162

Still more than state average debt and still a lot of money.

If you have to figure the monthly payments, put the amount you want to borrow in a loan calculator like the one found here: www.finaid.org/calculators/loanpayments.phtml. Here are the monthly payments and total cost for the out-of-pocket expenses above (30 years with a 4.66% interest rate)

Type of School	Monthly Payment	Total Cost (principal & interest)
Private schools	$555	$199,766
Public schools out of state	$409	$147,366
Public schools in Maryland	$213	$76,499

Again, we want you to be informed consumers. Please think about the long-term impacts of your financial options. Please think about balancing the value and the cost of your college education.

PLEASE, PLEASE, PLEASE do not be seduced into going to a particular school if you will have to take out a large amount of loans to do so. Remember: If you want to go to graduate school (a necessity for many career choices), that could be a major additional cost.

We strongly discourage students and families from taking out more than $30,000 TOTAL in college loans. Most scholarship and grant money diminishes over the course of your college career. Therefore, you can expect to receive the most 'free' money for your freshman year.

An example:

You apply to a college that costs $50,000/year for tuition and room and board. You are accepted and receive a 'generous' financial aid package for your freshman year.

It looks something like this:

Scholarships (don't have to pay back): $20,000
Grants (don't have to pay back): $10,000
Loans (must pay back): $20,000

Nice financial aid package, right? They are GIVING you $30,000!!!

Not so fast.

First of all, remember that scholarship and grant money usually diminishes each year after freshman year. Secondly, if your parent(s) cannot pay that $20,000 difference from savings, you will likely be taking out a MINIMUM of $20,000 for at least four years ($80,000 total).

What does that REALLY mean?

This is what it means:

In order to pay back $80,000 to the federal government, you (or your parents) will be paying $412.99 a MONTH for 30 YEARS. Because of interest, you will actually end up paying the government $148,675.66.

So, how much is $412.99 a month? That amount can pay for a room in an apartment OR a month of food for a family of four OR one car payment (for a Honda, not a BMW). Not to mention electric bills, phone bills, doctor bills, gasoline, clothes, health insurance, etc.

Go to www.finaid.org/calculators/loanpayments.phtml for a loan calculator.

It means that taking out $80,000 for a four year college education could substantially limit your opportunities and options for your future.

And what if you don't get a high paying job? What if you are in danger of becoming homeless, losing your car, or having the electricity shut off in the dead of winter? What if unforeseen tragedy strikes and you have to pay $100,000 in medical bills? What if you simply CANNOT afford to pay off the loan?

IT DOES NOT MATTER. Filing bankruptcy does not affect student loans. The government will garnish your wages (take money directly from your paycheck before you even see it) for as long as it has to.

Because of the enormous cost of college, we strongly encourage all students to apply to at least TWO Maryland state schools (in most cases, more affordable). There are excellent options for students in Maryland. You may also consider going to community college for two years and then transferring to four-year school. You will still get a degree from the four-year college, and you will have saved a LOT of money. MD four-year state schools have partnerships with the community colleges in the area. If you go to one of these community colleges and complete your two years with a decent GPA, you are almost guaranteed a spot at a MD state school for your final two years. Here is an example, from UMD, College Park:

Interviews

Helpful Hints

Please dress appropriately for your college interview. You should look neat and presentable. Avoid jeans, t-shirts, short skirts, torn or ripped clothing, or clothing with slogans. If you have any questions about what is appropriate, please see Abby.

If you are offered a personal interview, be prepared! A good interview is a mutual sharing of information. Think about some things that might make you different than other students that are interviewed (attending BSA is one of them!) What would you like the interviewer to know about you?

Research the school as much as possible. Take questions with you. Thoughtful questions can lead to answers that help you decide if the college is a good match. Create a few favorite questions that cover a number of areas of college life. If you are pursuing performing or visual art, your questions may be about that program.

The interviewer may ask you questions similar to the following:

- Who in your life has most influenced you?
- Tell me about a challenge that you have overcome.
- What are the last three books that you read that were not part of your school work?
- What do you think you can contribute to our student body?
- What do you think has been your biggest achievement?
- How did you spend last summer?
- How do you define success?
- What is your biggest weakness? Strength?
- How did you come to include this college in your choices?
- What is the most significant contribution you have made to your school or community?

- What has been your greatest experience in high school?
- Tell me about yourself. (Focus on three things.)
- If you could meet any important figure in the past or present, who would it be and what would you talk about?

The following can be some useful questions to ask the interviewer. Please use these as a guideline – make them your own and make sure they pertain to the college you are visiting!

- How many students are in a typical first-year class? Who teaches them (Professors? Graduate students?)? Do they break into smaller discussion groups? Led by whom?
- What were the social or cultural highlights last year?
- What is the role of Greek life (fraternities and sororities) on campus? If I didn't join, might that limit my social life?
- What can be most difficult for first-year students to adjust to when they first arrive?
- When does a student have to declare a major or a concentration? Can one double major?
- Can a student change from one major to another without difficulty?
- What types of career counseling services exist? Are there opportunities for internships?
- Can you tell me more about the _____? (newspaper, junior year abroad program, drama club)
- What percentage of students lives on campus? What alternatives are available for upperclassmen?
- Are there practice rooms and art studios available if a student is not in a particular major?
- How safe is the surrounding neighborhood?
- Are there many international students enrolled?
- How easy is it to get the classes one needs/wants?
- What are the most distinctive qualities of your institution?

Finally, please send the interviewer a thank you note (handwritten and mailed, not an email) no later than two days after the interview has taken place. If you need assistance with acquiring stationary or writing the note, please see Abby.
